Agenda and Reports

The meeting was called to order by CMA Association President Bill Hart who called on Don Kimbrell for the invocation.

The Minutes as published in the "Bugle" and on the web site were approved.

Becky Moon, treasurer, reported as of Dec. 31st. there was $16,396.66 in the checking account and a CD that was coming due the 5th of May for $31,854.28.

Since publication of the association's paid members in the newsletter along with a letter by board member Bill Fricke outlining the organization's expenses, over 100 members had brought their dues up to date. This increased the paid membership by approximately 1/3rd. Fricke suggested that a note of appreciation be included in the next "Bugle".

Becky was asked if there were alumni that attended reunions without paying their dues. She responded affirmatively but emphasized there were only a hand full.

Regarding the association's efforts to achieve tax exempt status, Bill Hart reported that he has the documentation but pointed out that the benefits reaching the membership through the $15.00 per year membership dues would be minimal.

Jack Walker reported that he had received an e-mail that Jack Stevens, CMA Class of '41, had given the U.S. Naval Academy $2.5 million toward the construction of a stadium. Jack said that Becky Moon's mother, Alice Allgood, was a good friend of Jack Stevens. Becky responded that Stevens was at one time contacted by the alumni association and in effect said what did the association want him to do and how much did it want him to give.

Becky described Stevens as a semiretired mortgage banker presently serving as Chairman of the Augusta Country Club.

Bill Hart said that in a conversation with Mr. Stevens regarding the CMA Memorial, Stevens had mentioned that he might be interested in purchasing a pylon in his father's name but that was the last Bill heard.

Class of '41 Graduate Contributes $10-Million

The Navy Marine Corps Memorial Stadium's field at the U.S. Naval Academy will be renamed Jack Stephens Field in honor of a $10-million gift for the field's renovation from the Little Rock financier. Stephens, a '41 graduate of CMA, and a '45 graduate of the Naval Academy, gave the largest single private donation

in the academy's history last August.

In addition, it was announced that he donated $1.5-million to the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences to endow a second chair in geriatric medicine in November.

These donations are the latest in a string of gifts Stephens has made over the years to various educational, medical and cultural institutions. With his brother Witt, Stephens built Stephens, Inc., once the largest investment company off Wall Street.

Board Offers Thanks for Influx of Membership dues

The CMA Alumni Association Board of Directors extends a warm thanks to those alumni that caught up with their annual dues over the past several months.

Faced with an increase in expenses for the upcoming Centennial Reunion Celebration, the added monies will help pay for advance advertising and enhanced activities for the August 7th weekend.

Honor Committee Chairman, Winston Elison, reported the committee had received one nomination, that of a retired vice-admiral. Additionally, Mrs. Grimes has been asked to structure a brief write-up on both Major Hatcher and Col. Ragsdale for possible future consideration.

By-Laws Committee Chairman Woody Pettigrew, announced the result of a vote by the board concerning the change in the by-laws allowing the board to set the dates of each reunion. He reported the large majority of board members approved the change. The board is now charged with the responsibility of specifying reunion dates.

President's Select Committee

After thanking Pettigrew and the other committee members for their efforts, Bill Hart charged each of the board as members of the President's Select Committee, with bringing a CMA graduate to the next reunion that has never attended.

Mike Gilchrist announced that Mrs. Grimes lymphoma has returned. She is still active and has charge of the CMA student records but he counseled the board that it would be wise to make other arrangements if thing changed.

He pointed out that whereas her initial concerns had been of a monetary nature after retiring from Columbia Academy, they had now shifted to health care concerns. Mike felt sure CA would join with the Alumni Association in helping Mrs. Grimes.

A motion was made and passed that Mike and Becky conduct an exploratory study on what can be done with the remaining school records in the future.

Bill Hart then read a letter he had sent CA's Dr. Thrasher thanking him for his offer of the old Guard House made at the last board meeting and regretting that it must be declined for lack of fiscal resources. Bill emphasized that Columbia Academy had made several overtures to the CMA Alumni Association to participate more actively in on-campus activities but for one reason or another, we had to decline.

New Business

The primary thrust of the board meeting concerned the fixing of a date for the centennial reunion scheduled for this year since the By-Law change had been affirmed.

Bill Hart enumerated the advantages and disadvantages of fixing a Spring reunion date and then asked board members to let their views be known.

While the hot weather of August would be avoided, there were concerns involving the need for shouldering a heavier work load for the centennial celebration which this year would take longer to implement.

It was decided that the board should wait for a future reunion to hold in the cooler climate of Spring. The 2004 reunion was set for the weekend of August 6-7.

Reunion Applications will be posted on the web site as well as in the "Bugle" as soon as details regarding activities are resolved.

Robin Layton volunteered to explore the installation of flags with the CMA emblem on campus before and during the reunion.

Robin Salze volunteered himself and wife Suzanne, to coordinate reunion registration. This year a registration form will be available on the web site as well as in the "Bugle".

Friday's golf tournament will again be spearheaded by Bill Frickew. You can contact Bill by e-mail at: frickew@bellsouth.net

An effort will be made to advertise the Centennial Reunion through advertising in major publications in Memphis, Atlanta, Birmingham, Nashville and Atlanta. Military publications will also be contacted as will Southern Living magazine.

Suggested activities for the wives during the Saturday morning meeting included a visit to Milk-E-Way Farms, a walking horse farm or a shopping trip to Nashville's Cool Springs Mall. Layton volunteered to look into the possibility of placing the walking horse farm on the schedule.

Mike Gilchrist was again appointed to coordinate Saturday breakfast in the old mess hall and on other campus activities such as the flag raising commemorating graduates that have died. He additionally urged special recognition for CA student, Adam Bedwell, who has played taps for a number of the re-

Service Industry Leader Traces Origins to CMA

Julian Hillery Sr., CMA '55 Post Graduate, remembers his high school football days as character building days. He cites determination, discipline, loyalty and honesty as the foundation that led to his organizing and building World Ship Supply into a world leader with offices serving all ports on the Gulf of Mexico.

Julian Hillery

It was in his basement apartment in 1971 that the business became a reality.

The company recognizes the importance of incorporating e-commerce in the framework of the ever expanding business.

"We fully understand the importance of automating the purchasing process in order to facilitate a more efficient and cost effective operation," says Hillery.

Headquartered in New Orleans, the corporation participates in the e-procurement systems of iShip Exchange, ShipServ, Sea Supplier, Real Marine, Danaos and Marine Provider, all of which are based on the expeditious exchange of information via computer.

Known as "The Chief", the senior Hillery heads up the organization that includes his son, Jubi Hillery, daughter, Mamie Hillery and nephew, Andrew Cobb.

Two possibilities are being investigated for a site for the Friday afternoon cocktail party, the American Legion Post and the Columbia Country Club. Robin Layton is checking with the American Legion and Don Kimbrell, whose Class of '53 held a mini-reunion at the Country Club last year, will see if they can accommodate a larger gathering.

Becky will again arrange for the bands at the cocktail party and the Saturday evening banquet plus a professional photographer to take class pictures.

Woody urged the organization of a decorations committee and suggested a series of toasts early Saturday evening honoring fellow classmates, the school and the American Flag. He is also preparing a brief media presentation reviewing the history of CMA. Anyone with photos or film clips they think might be useful in this endeavor is encouraged to contact him by e-mail at: wpettigrew@elmco.com

There was a brief discussion as to the possible need for two board meetings prior to the August reunion.

The next board meeting is set for May 22, the weekend of the CA graduation and dedication of the CMA Memorial.

The meeting was adjourned.

Over 100 employees provide a wide variety of services for the shipping industry including the delivery of refrigerated products, ship spare parts and tools to ship side, plus the maintenance of liferafts serviced through world ship's liferaft depots. The company also participates in the launching of private boats.

Jubi Hillery

On call 24-7, the staff can assist vessel not only in furnishing provisions, but in bonding, deck and engine supplies, stationery, radio equipment, medical supplies, nautical charts and electrical needs to name a few.

Mamie Hillery
